BARZUN'S NEW BOOK

H. M. Barzun, the French author and lecturer who has been residing in our city over a year, is enjoying the unusual privilege of receiving here the first copies of his latest work, which was published in Paris two weeks ago and circulated throughout the European Capitals.

This work, "FOUNDATION D'EUROPE," is issued into large-sized volumes presented in the classical Paris fashion, and totaling six hundred pages.

Both volumes were completed in Harrisburg last winter with the material the author brought back from his 1920 trip throughout twelve countries of Western and Central Europe.

The first volume deals with the peace economic problems and gives an outstanding view of the European Situation based on amazing facts and figures which are hardly known in this country.

The whole ruin of the European structure, economically and socially, is pictured not according to national prejudices or political partisanship, but as a "human record." Such a picture is simply bewildering.

After this book summing the "destruction," the second one gathers all the vital elements contributing to the present "reconstruction."

But as many European leaders, including H. G. Wells, Shaw, Keynes, Harden, Ferrero, etc., said, there is no hope to reconstruct upon the ruins of the past, if the civilization is to be salvaged.

H. M. Barzun contrasts in this second volume, the armament system which led to the war, and all the new ideas, systems and doctrines fighting their way towards European peace.

The chapters treating of organized labor through Unionism, Syndicalism, guild Socialism and Russian Sovietism give an inside idea of what is really "happening in Europe."

The value of these volumes is indicated by the fact that the Paris publisher has already treated for their translation in the main European countries.

The author, who has published ten volumes prior to his latest work, is considered in Paris as a leader in modern French literature.—From the Harrisburg Patriot & News, November 1st, 1921.
